Westmoreland new chief of staff

Sargent Shriver

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Friday that he is naming Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, to be Army chief of staff effective next July.

Johnson told a news conference, too, that he has not yet made any decision on a projected increase in troop strength for the war in Vietnam.

The chief executive concentrated on appointments at a session with reporters in his oval office, with these resulting announcements:

Wilbur Cohen will move up from undersecretary to sec-

Shriver French ambassador

tary of health, education and welfare.

Sargent Shriver is leaving his anti-poverty post and has been named ambassador to France.

A successor has not yet been chosen for Westmoreland, who will succeed Gen. Harold Johnson as Army chief.

The President is asking the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Earle G. Wheeler, to stay on in that post for an extra year. His term normally would expire July 2.

This will require a congressional resolution.

Johnson said that in order to have a smooth transition all the way around in the military shifts, Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, commander in chief of the Pacific, will be asked to remain on from May 1 to July 2 when other changes take effect. Sharp presumably is retiring.

No successor was mentioned for Sharp.

The President was asked whether the forthcoming reassignment for Westmoreland implies any change in strategy, such as the search and destroy missions, or in tactics in the war in Vietnam.

Johnson answered that "strategy and tactical operations have nothing to do with the appointments as such."

The President didn't close the door on changes in the strategy and tactical fields, saying that he doesn't know what the replacement commander will recommend.

One question immediately was "Are we any closer to peace?"

"I can't answer that question," the President said. "Peace is a very elusive thing. I can't pinpoint a time or a place."

He said that each day we are trying constructively to get to a proper solution but he is unable to speak with any authority on what may be in the enemy's mind.

Johnson left the way open also for additional funds to press the war in Vietnam but said he has reached no conclusions on the size of the supplemental appropriation he will seek from Congress.

Figures of $3 billion to $5 billion have been mentioned.

Johnson said additional money will be needed both for U.S. troops and for extra troop commitments being made by allies.

He said that "we do know there are going to be some step-ups in filling inventory needs, involving everything from spare parts to ammunition, guns and equipment, both for ourselves and for the allies."

Westmoreland was in the Philippines on a quick visit to his family when President Johnson announced in Washington that he will become Army chief of staff by July and will give up the Vietnam command to an unnamed successor.

Westmoreland flew back to Saigon immediately.

Mansfield views president far in front of opponents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., a Vietnam war critic, said Friday President Johnson has an overwhelming lead over dovish Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, expressed the opinion at an informal news conference that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has the Republican nomination sewed up.

Conceding that it looks that way, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said in an interview that GOP moderates are without a candidate since New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller declined to run. He added "we are going to have to accommodate our views with Nixon's."

Griffin, who supported Michigan Gov. George Romney before the latter quit the nomination contest, said he thinks that because Nixon will not have major primary opposition he will "move closer to the center" of party philosophy.

"I would have no difficulty in supporting Nixon," Griffin said.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., who heads an organization called Town and Country for Johnson-Humphrey, said he agrees with Mansfield that Johnson is far ahead of his anti-war rivals in convention delegate support.

Harris said he thinks Nixon will be easier than Rockefeller for Johnson to defeat.

Nixon carried Oklahoma in his unsuccessful 1960 presidential campaign, and Harris said "You might think this is Nixon country. But I don't find any enthusiasm for him. They were wild about Barry Goldwater in 1964, but Nixon doesn't seem to send them."

Sen. George Murphy of California, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he doesn't believe Rockefeller's self-elimination will make much difference. And he added "With a positive, hard-hitting campaign, Nixon can defeat Johnson."

Murphy said he doesn't believe Rockefeller's decision will change the stance of California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who expects to be his state's favorite son. He has left his name on the ballot in the Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oregon primaries but has said he will not campaign in these states.

"I don't think he would be interested in going on a ticket with Nixon," Murphy said.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., who failed to get Rockefeller to become an active candidate, said it is possible, but not probable, that a draft movement for the governor could develop.

Crew of Pueblo fears execution

SEOUL (AP) — Two months after North Korea captured the USS Pueblo, Pyongyang radio said Friday the 82 captive crewmen have written letters expressing fears they may be executed unless Washington apologizes for the incident.

The broadcast from the North Korean capital said the crew had sent letters to President Johnson, five senators, the House of Representatives, a governor and their families.

Senator Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), left, leaves the Milwaukee Journal after a session with the editorial board just minutes before former Vice President Richard Nixon arrived for his session. McCarthy waited to meet Nixon but the two candidates in the Wisconsin primary missed each other by a few minutes. (UPI Telephoto)

Spring? Not with snow ranging up to 16 inches

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A wet spring snow, common in the Rockies but rare in the South, buried a wide area of Dixie under a white blanket up to 16 inches deep Friday.

The snow, the second heaviest on record in this area, resulted in at least two deaths.

Schools were closed, businesses closed or crippled because employees couldn't get to work, and motorists were left stranded on snow-clogged highways.

Two men, both from Knoxville, Tenn., were killed on Interstate 40 east of Jackson, Tenn., when their car plowed into a truck. A wrecker blocked one westbound lane of the superhighway at the time, trying to pull another truck out of a ditch.

West Tennessee, between the Mississippi River and the western bend of the Tennessee, appeared to be hardest hit. All highways in the area were hazardous—and virtually impassable—with 10 inches or more of ice and snow. Power and utility lines crumpled under the weight of the heavy, wet blanket.

Southern Bell Telephone Co. sent in emergency crews from Alabama and South Mississippi to help restore telephone service. Phones were reported "out by the thousands" as a result of the storm.

The snow area, moving eastward, extended from Louisiana to the Great Lakes and into Maine.

In the South, the snow depths at noon ranged from up to 14 inches at Memphis to two inches in Nashville and Muscle Shoals, Ala. It continued falling. A foot was recorded at Clarksdale and Oxford in North Mississippi, just south of here.

Elsewhere, three inches of snow was reported at Monroe, La.; four inches at Greenwood and Tupelo, Miss.; Bowling Green, Ky.; and Evansville, Ind.; five inches at Jackson, Miss.; six inches at Louisville, Ky.; 11 inches at Dyersburg, Tenn.; and Fulton, Ky., and 12 inches at Jackson, Tenn.

Airports were closed at both Memphis and Nashville.

In Memphis itself, which recorded 16 inches of snow at noon with it still coming down thickly, the storm cancelled a proposed mass march by city Negroes to support striking garbage collectors.

Novotny falls victim of reform

PRAGUE (AP) — Antonin Novotny, symbol of 25 stern years of Stalinist rule in Czechoslovakia, resigned as president Friday, deserted by his old Soviet friends. They had pledged privately in Moscow three days ago not to interfere with the new Communist government's drive toward reform.

Hounded to quit for weeks, Novotny, 63, had held on hoping for some sign the wave of democratic change here would ebb.

But Deputy Premier Oldrich Cernik returned from the Soviet Union Wednesday with what informants said was word from Premier Alexei N. Kosygin that Czechoslovakia would be left alone to continue its "Socialist democratization."

"I inform you that I have decided to resign," Novotny wrote in a letter to the National Assembly. "I have taken this decision after careful consideration, proceeding from the present situation in this country and also from the aim to help the further strengthening of our Socialist country by my step."

With his announcement came approval by the Communist Politburo of an action program to rehabilitate 30,000 victims of Stalinism, and a call from the country's highest Roman Catholic prelate for restoration of full religious freedom.

The appeal by Bishop Frantisek Tomasek asked rehabilitation of all barred nuns and clergymen, including Josef Cardinal Beran, archbishop of Prague now in Rome after secret negotiations freed him from 17 years confinement in 1965. Beran, 79, was reported willing to return.

Prague radio carried immediate bulletins on Novotny's resignation. In a nation of 15 million, including many who viewed Novotny as the personification of its years without freedom, there were frequent expressions of relief.

He was accused of being linked with the bloody Stalinist purges of the early 1950's.

State Bar favorable to proposals

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The House of Delegates of the Pennsylvania Bar Association (PBA) unanimously endorsed Friday all proposals drafted by the state's recent Constitutional Convention.

The delegates, the PBA's policy making body, also endorsed an amended version of a Shafer Administration bill that would legalize wiretapping by law enforcement officers in Pennsylvania with court approval.

Andrew Hourigan of Wilkes-Barre, PBA president, said the action taken by the House of Delegates represented the organization's official position on the issues.

The Constitutional Convention proposals cover legislative apportionment, taxation and state finance, the Judiciary and local government.

The House of Delegates said the PBA would support actively the proposals, which will appear on the April 23 Primary Election ballot.

Cheyney's students force school closing

CHEYNEY, Pa. (AP) — A demonstration by some 300 Cheyney State College students Friday forced a weekend shutdown of the predominantly Negro school. State Police were called to maintain order.

The students carried files, desks and chairs out of the administration building and dumped them on the lawn.

There was some jostling and shouting but no violence as about 50 state policemen, helmeted and carrying nightsticks, rushed to the campus located about 30 miles south of Philadelphia.

The demonstration reportedly began after dismissal of a student following his eviction from a dormitory where he practiced a musical instrument without permission.

Dr. Leroy B. Allen, Cheyney's president, sought to address the group of students in the afternoon—before they dispersed—but fell to the ground. Some reported he had been shoved by students. Aides escorted him inside.

The Black Students League, which led the demonstration, drew up a list of demands, mostly dealing with more student control of campus life. They were similar to a list presented last November but which the administration reportedly failed to act upon.

One of the new demands included rehabilitation of the unidentified student.

Charred ruins mark fighting

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — An Arab guerrilla in a camouflage uniform scratched at the rubble of a wrecked army depot Friday, then raised his head. His look was sullen and vengeful. "It may take us 100 years," he said, "but we will liberate Palestine."

The charred ruins at Shuneh, two miles from the Jordan River frontier with Israel, were typical of others, blackened and desolate, along the route of Thursday's 15-hour Israeli air, tank and ground assault.

Rocket casings, some bearing the U.S. handclasp of friendship, littered the roads where jets had strafed. Many were marked "Saudi Arabia"—presumably American aid passed on to Egypt and captured by the Israelis in last June's Middle East war.

The stated Israeli purpose for Thursday's raids was to wipe out El Fatah staging centers and guerrillas, but several had encountered in a newswoman's van it was identified as members of the clandestine Palestine Liberation Organization.

(In Tel Aviv, Gen. Moshe Yair, chief of army intelligence, said he felt attempts would be made by Arab guerrillas to show they had not been eliminated.)

Jordan reported two small arms clashes Friday at Bapera in the northern sector, barely 12 hours after the Israeli troops had withdrawn.

Karameh, the refugee camp three miles east of the Jordan that the Israelis said was the El Fatah command post, was a dust bowl of demolished buildings. Dynamite charges had blown apart a movie theater and mixed with the rubble were strips of torn film.

Guerrilla units hunted for unexploded mines and dynamite two within a few minutes. Western newsmen who watched them were accosted by angry civilians, describing themselves as local defense volunteers.

They checked the bolts of their rifles and were calmed only after the newsmen's cameras were surrendered.

Out of 32 Israeli tanks and halftracks reported destroyed by the Jordanians, the newsmen saw only two Korean War vintage Centurion tanks knocked out at Shuneh.

Teachers set April 3 deadline on salaries

HARRISBURG (AP) — The president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) said Friday the state's public school teachers would not wait beyond April 3 for the legislature to pass a salary bill.

The president, Joseph Standa of Johnstown, was not specific about what action the PSEA would take if the deadline is not met. However, he did not rule out entirely the possibility of a statewide strike.

Questioned by newsmen about the possibility of a teachers' walkout, Standa replied:

"Up until this point, we have been trying to stay within the law, but I can't say that we will be able to do that now."

"I will not disclose specific recommendations I might make at this time," Standa said, "but there are these possibilities:

— Massive resignations, as there were in Florida.

— Withholding of all extra-curricular activities.

— National sanctions under which teachers would be asked not to accept employment in this state."

"The present salary bill was completely drafted by the Republicans," Standa said.

Easter opens religious worship

By Rod G. MacLeod

During this Lenten season and on until Easter many people take a great interest in religion and church matters. This seems to be the right thing to do, as so much emphasis is placed on religion at this time of year.

Unfortunately, some folks think of the things of the Lord only at such holidays and shut God away from their thoughts all the rest of the year until, perhaps, the next church designated festival.

Some act as though God were like some sort of idol that can be tucked away in a bureau drawer and taken out as needed. Once a week this idol can be taken out, carried to a place of worship, taken back again, and shut up in the drawer until the next week.

Not part time
The worship of the Great Creator is not a part time, once a week ritual. Worship as He decrees it, is a full time concentrated maximum effort. An all out project with "all the stops out." A day to day experience putting Christian action into over-alls and making a working example of our beliefs.

A religious ritual type of worship that keeps to the letter of the law is worthless unless the true spirit of our faith is made workable by the spirit of humbleness, love and charity.

Formal doctrine has never brought a repentant sinner to the altar of Christ's forgiveness. Love has, and is the major instrument that we should use. Showing love and kindness to all, and an understanding of another's problems and faults is the first step to an introduction to Christ.

We "good" folk who occupy a pew every Sunday and learn a smattering of what we should know, and then let a week pass without taking to others about the wonders of God's love are not doing what He has commanded us to do.

We "miss the boat" so to speak, because we simply do not have the courage to stand up for what we believe when the forces of worldliness surround us during the week.

Best service
We must not forget that it is through the reading of The Bible — God's word, is when we can consult with Him and learn more as to how we can best serve Him. It is through morning and night prayer that we have the privilege of talking to and with Him. Yet we persist in following the line of least resistance, let worldly things shut out the things of The Lord in our daily lives.

We cannot blame the un-churched folks for their criticism of church attending people. We too often set too poor an example, and by unkind actions, convince them that we do not have anything worth having, in religion.

We know that we have the most wonderful gift that anyone can have, the gift of eternal life. Yet we must remember that this gift is not exclusively ours alone but must be shared by all who would seek.

So often we discourage those who would seek and enjoy the worship of Our Father, as our actions are so far inferior to our talk.

Let us then take a long, hard look at ourselves, make the necessary changes, and become a full time evangelistic person, "on fire for The Lord."

New York minister to speak

Lenten Guidepost

Child rescued from car near cliff

STROUDSBURG — Rev. Richard K. Heacock, Jr. of New York City, will be the guest minister at both the 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. services Sunday in the First Methodist Church of Stroudsburg. His topic will be "Peacemaking, a Christian's Task."

The anthem will be "I See His Blood Upon The Rose," by Robertson.

Rev. Heacock, a native of Texas and a graduate of Southern Methodist University and Southern Methodist, served as a missionary to Alaska for 11 years and is a veteran of World War II.

He is currently with the staff of the Methodist Office for the United Nations as Seminar Associate for the Division of Peace and World Order.

Sermon listed for services

CANADENSIS — Services will be held in the Moravian Church on Sunday at 10:45 a.m. with Rev. James F. Gross delivering the Lenten Liturgy and sermon entitled "I Thirst."

Mid-week Lenten services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday with Rev. John Roberts speaking on "Betrayal-Denial." Rev. Russell Walters will read the scripture.

By Marilyn Helleberg

Housewife, Kearney, Nebraska
My husband was out of town on business, and the spring day was too inviting to waste on loneliness; so with my two children, their playmate from across the street and a picnic lunch, I drove to the lake a few miles from town.

The children remembered the last time we had been to the lake we had brought sleds and skates, so they were excited to see green trees and blue water where spidery branches and gray-white snow had been.

"God has used the magic of the warm sun and spring rains to wake up the trees and flowers," I told them.

"You mean," said five-year-old Karen, "God has been here before us and done all that?"

"Yes, and He's still here. God is everywhere."

With typical five-year-old persistence, she continued to press me. "Why does He wake them up?"

Picked wild flowers
That was a tough one. "Well, I guess because He loves all living things and wants to take good care of them." I answered, choosing my words carefully.

As we explored the lake, we made a game of looking for evidence of God. The children picked some wild flowers and put them on the picnic table in a paper cup filled with lake water, and we thanked God for them before we ate our lunch.

When we were ready to leave, Karen and her friend, Susan, wanted to go to the restroom, so I parked the car on the knoll by the bathrooms. Paul, my two-year-old, and I waited for them in the car.

When Susan came back to tell me that Karen needed help with her sunsuit, I pulled on the emergency brake, told Paul to wait in the car, and went up the hill.

I had just stepped inside when I heard Susan scream. I rushed out to see the car rolling backward, off the road and down the slope toward the high embankment — which marked a steep drop-off into the lake. The emergency brake had failed!

Moving too fast
Something seemed to explode inside my chest as I ran, shrieking, after the runaway car. But there was nothing I could do! It was moving too fast — farther and farther away from me.

Lenten services

In a rush of panic, I realized that there was no hope. Paul was on his way over the cliff to certain death.

Yet, incredibly, I heard myself saying, "Thank God." Thank God? How I could be saying that in such a moment is beyond me. However, in that instant when there was no logical hope I knew — yes knew — that Paul would be saved.

It was almost simultaneous with that thought that a young boy came out of nowhere. He ran alongside the moving car, fighting desperately to pull the door open. The cliff loomed closer. Another thought crowded into my mind: they would both be killed!

Then the youngster disappeared inside the car. It swerved to the right, still heading toward the embankment sideways. But as the right side of the car came to the brink, it slowed and seemed to hang by its left wheels. As though defying gravity, it balanced precariously on the edge.

Saved by boy
It is still going over, I thought. Then I began running again. As I ran I saw the boy scoop Paul in his arms, jump out, and carry him to safety. When I reached Paul and the boy, I hugged them both, crying in near hysteria. The car teetered for a moment, then steadied on the ledge.

The boy's name was Robert Royle and I remember telling him that I knew positively God had sent him. He shrugged his part off with this explanation:

"My folks decided to walk around the lake and I started to go with them, but changed my mind. There's a good view of the boats from here."

It was a simple logical answer, one that could be accepted at face value and forgotten.

Depth of love

I, however, choose to believe that God did take part in this one small episode in life; just as I believe He is interested in all His creations. I thought back to the question Karen had posed earlier in the day about the spring awakening of trees and flowers.

"Why does He wake them up?" she had asked.

"Because He loves all living things and wants to take good care of them," I had told her.

The depth of that love and the tenderness of that care were revealed to me on a bright spring day.

Schedules announced for church

STROUDSBURG — The Sunday service of worship held at Zion United Church of Christ, 14 N. Eighth St., will take place at 11 a.m.

Special music for the morning service will include the Junior Choir anthem "God Is Everywhere" by Barnard and the Penn-Senior anthem "Jesus, Meek And Lowly," by Peery.

Rev. Marshall J. Riu, pastor, will preach on the topic "The Lost And Found Department," the third in the series entitled "The Psalm of the Crook" and dealing with understanding the meaning behind the Twenty-Third Psalm.

On Sunday between 2:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. the Second Year Class of the Confirmations will be attending a church-wide Confirmation Rally held at Christ United Church of Christ in Bethlehem.

The theme for the rally is "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Single tickets available for concert

EAST STROUDSBURG — Non-members are reminded you may purchase single-admission tickets to the last concert of the Pocono Community Concert Association's 1967-68 season.

Such tickets will be available at the door at concert-time, 3 p.m., Sunday, when Ma Si-Hon, violinist and Tung Kwong-Kwong, pianist, take the stage at East Stroudsburg High School.

Among the selections on the program will be the "Suiyuan Suite" composed by Ma's brother, Ma Sitson. Ma Sitson, a violin he had been an outstanding professor of music.

Church host to play next week

HOLLISTERVILLE — "The Faith Hawker," a play by Howard Rodman, will be presented on March 30 at 8 p.m. at the Hollisterville Methodist Church by the Methodist Youth Fellowship Players of the United Methodist Church of Jersey City, N. J.

The MYF Players have presented the play to several MYF's in Northern New Jersey and on Long Island, and the production won first place at the Arts Festival of the Eastern District of the Northern New Jersey Methodist Annual Conference.

Rev. Abbott guest speaker

REV. John D. Abbott, General Superintendent of the Pilgrim Holiness Denomination with headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind. will be the guest speaker in the closing meetings of a revival endeavor held at the Pilgrim Church, 208 Main St.

Pastor L. W. Drury announced that Rev. Abbott will speak each day at 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Let There Be Light

"And God said, let there be light and there was light."

The gift of light has been the most wonderful boon handed to man by his Creator. It is with the aid of light that he can throw off fear and all the other things that shackle him and keep him from attaining his rightful place in the scheme of creation. No wonder then that the lighthouse is a symbol of hope—of good. The terrors of disaster at sea are banished for the mariner when the beam of light comes over the dark waters.

Another symbol of light is the church where regular attendance sheds light on many perplexing and heart-rending problems. It stands as a lighthouse in the darkness of uncertainty and doubt.

Pinchot in Hall of Fame

By Norman B. Lehde

GIFFORD PINCHOT has been honored by the National Wildlife Federation having been named in their Conservation Hall of Fame series they are currently publishing.

The article on Pinchot, accompanied by a portrait in color will appear in the next issue of National Wildlife, the federation's official publication. The article on the nation's first Chief Forester was authorized by Dr. Matthew J. Brennan, director of the Pinchot Institute. Speaking of the Pinchot Institute, when Mike Frome recently criticized the institution at the former Gifford Pinchot home at Milford in the pages of the American Forests Magazine, the editor was swamped by letters from persons familiar with the work of the Institute and their total environment concept approach to conservation education.

ARE THERE any pond owners in Pike County who desire to have their ponds listed in a publication to be prepared for Rand McNally and company? In order to be listed, such ponds must be open to the public on either a fee or a free basis.

The National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts have been assured by the publishers of the guide that there will be no charge for the listing.

Persons desiring to have their ponds listed are urged to contact the Pike County Soil Conservation Office or any of the district directors as soon as possible.

THE MILFORD LIONS will attempt to roar the Delaware Valley Faculty off the basketball court at the high school tonight in the big basketball contest which is being staged to help swell the total in the club's Scholarship Fund.

Marsch-Kellogg Post of Milford will be represented by two, and possibly three teams in the 22nd Annual American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania Bowling Tournament. The tourney is being rolled at Wyalsburg this year, May 4 thru June 16.

Two tax liens placed on file

STRODSBURG — Two tax liens for alleged non-payment of state sales tax payments were filed in the Monroe County Courthouse Thursday against Alvin J. Newell, Stroudsburg, RD 5, and Frederick Kimball, 490 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg.

The state claims that Newell owes $146 for an unpaid balance from July 1, 1966, to June 30, 1967. Kimball allegedly owes $40 for the year 1966.

Librarians present at meeting

NEWFOUNDLAND — Three members of the Newfoundland Area Public Library board of directors attended the Pocono Library District Meeting at Holiday Inn, Wilkes-Barre, recently, and brought back enthusiastic reports of the day's events.

Miss Katherine Lousier, Miss Cora Lange and Mrs. Edith Robacker were present for the session which was held for the purpose of discussing the Martin Re-Survey, "Progress and Problems of Pennsylvania Libraries."

Background and explanations were by Ernest Doerschuk, Jr., State Librarian. Welcoming remarks were by Robert Cohee, Scranton District Librarian.

The meeting was divided into three study groups for a part of the day. Mrs. Robacker sat in on the discussion, "Lack of Local Public Library Services;" Miss Lange listened to the discussion of "Financial Support for Libraries;" while Miss Lousier heard the discussion on "Small and Weak Libraries."

Carnival to be held for Heart Fund

MOUNT POCONO — Gregory James, II, of Mount Pocono, will hold a children's carnival for the benefit of the Monroe County Heart Fund Saturday, Sunday, March 30 and March 31.

James said there will be dart games, ring toss, betting wheel, penny pitching, miniature golf, spook house, and many other events.

One of the prizes will be a three wheeled bicycle, including refreshments such as pizzas and Sloppy Joes.

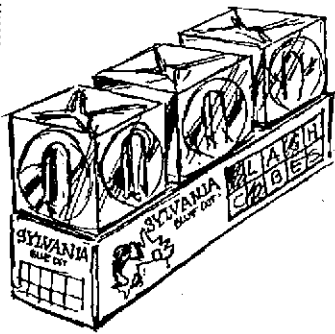

Gregory held a similar carnival last September for the benefit of the March of Dimes and said he really enjoys organizing and preparing for this.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip James and is a student at Coolbaugh Elementary School. Mrs. James said he has worked for weeks collecting material to make tickets, games and props.

The carnival will be held at Three Laurel Lane, Mount Pocono, just off Knob Road. In the event of poor weather, it will be postponed until May 4.

26 special education classes approved

Record Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — The State Board of Education has approved 26 special education classes for handicapped pupils conducted in schools in Monroe County in the 1966-1967 school year as meeting requirements for state funds to apply to the cost of this program.

Of this number 13 classes - all for mentally retarded pupils were provided by school districts in their schools. An equal number - three for mentally retarded, two for physically handicapped, three in speech correction and five for socially and emotionally maladjusted pupils - were operated in various schools by Monroe County School Board.

Four classes Stroudsburg Area School

District provided four classes for mentally retarded pupils in both elementary and high school grades.

Three such classes were conducted by East Stroudsburg Area School District, two classes by Pleasant Valley Jointure and four classes by Pocono Mountain Jointure.

State funds for classes operated by the Monroe County School Board were provided during the school term.

Granting of state funds to county school boards for this purpose is dependent upon their compliance with regulations in conducting classes the previous year.

School districts receive reimbursement from state funds for classes they provide after these classes are approved by the state board. State funds cover the difference in cost of teaching a pupil in special classes and a normal pupil in regular classes, department officials said.

State police probe crash of vehicles

FERN RIDGE — State Police at Fern Ridge investigated a two-car accident Friday at 4:15 a.m. on Rt. 940 in Carbon County. Injuries reported were minor.

The drivers were identified as Robert Sandurs of Lansing, Mich., and Annetta Dotter of White Haven.

According to police the highway was covered with heavy fog and the Dotter vehicle was attempting to make a left turn into a drive way when it was struck in the rear by the Sandurs car.

After the collision the Dotter vehicle continued on a short distance and collided with a utility pole.

Give Us Back Our Confidence!

An Open Letter To The People Of

Monroe County

In this open letter to the People of Monroe County, and to the registered Democrats in particular, we present Senator Eugene J. McCarthy as the man most needed in America in this time of crisis. To dedicate himself to peace in Vietnam and to offer revolutionary programs for cleaning up the blighted slums in hundreds of American cities requires his courage — a courage great enough to risk his future for the welfare of the nation. Being dedicated to his cause, our committee will try to reach you, the voter, to tell you all we can about this man, Senator McCarthy, Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

Senator McCarthy believes that Washington's policy in Vietnam was wrong from the start and continues to be against our national interest. We have received no major support from our western allies in fighting the war, and most of them are strongly opposed to it. McCarthy says, "We have never been more isolated from the world than we are today — not because they are withdrawing from us. We are not winning the hearts and minds of the people in Vietnam, we are killing their people and our sons in a futile effort to have precisely our way in Asia."

Besides the 30 billion dollar drain in Vietnam, we lay out 50 billion dollars more each year for defense. The latter amount pays for our stationing of troops in forty different places throughout the world. To maintain these vast military installations in an out-dated, cold war policy, the military-industrial system is destroying the value of the American Dollar. "To convert our semi-warfare state to a peacetime economy will be a major challenge," McCarthy says. "Instead of a foreign policy based on fear and containment, we must seek a positive and constructive role in world affairs in rational collaboration with other nations."

To the war's staggering price in men, money and image, must be added the neglect of all domestic problems. The riots may soon grow to civil wars. Our citizens are no longer safe. Senator McCarthy's hard-hitting programs and the money we now spend on the military are needed to provide better housing, education, and job opportunities for every American — no matter what his nationality or color of his skin.

"THIS NEED NOT BE AN AMERICA WHICH IS ON THE EDGE OF DESPAIR," HE ASSERTS. "IT CAN AGAIN BE AN AMERICA OF CONFIDENCE."

Help candidate McCarthy in his fight to help America. Vote for him in the April 23 primary.

Public should know details

Planning and zoning are among the most complex and most misunderstood developments that have been felt within various governmental structures in recent years.

These two necessary divisions of growth must be understood by everyone. The knowledge of development guards against misunderstanding and in the long run a delay in acceptance.

It was with these thoughts in mind that we became more than a little upset Thursday when it was learned that the press and radio weren't welcome at the joint meeting of East Stroudsburg Borough Council and the Planning and Zoning Committee.

Not welcome? Both members of radio and the press were asked to leave this meeting.

The oddity of the entire development is the fact that this meeting has been talked about for weeks and the press, although not told directly, was led to believe that Thursday's meeting was an open session.

Instead, spokesmen for the two groups informed press and radio that the meeting was a closed session, during which a revised zoning ordinance would be studied and discussed. For some reason, they couldn't study and discuss the issue with the news media present.

We were told that no action would be taken from this meeting. But, the fact remains that the action when taken will be as a result of Thursday's session.

The only way planning and zoning can be successful is to have a well informed public. Thus information must be made public, especially when it stems from decisions made by elected officials meeting in a governmental office, supported by the public.

Spring's official now

It's spring — make no mistake about it. We haven't seen many robins and we aren't fooled by current balmy temperatures. But, we know it's spring.

Our clue stems from the fact that area residents are beginning to receive notification of traffic violations in Philadelphia, when actually they weren't even in the City of Brotherly Love on the stated date.

Every spring those now famous "Philadelphia notices" clog the mails and have been received by people who have never been in Philadelphia. Actually, one in Allentown received seven this year.

Philadelphia has had a number of reasons down through the years as to why such foul-ups occur. The latest being that the state numbers its temporary and regular license plates the same.

Then, how does a special license plate, of which there is supposedly only one, get nailed — without being in Philadelphia?

However, we all have hope. The state is still studying the situation. This is a continuous study that shows no signs of ending or being fruitful.

But, we still maintain it is only a sign of spring.

Wildlife medal

By ROBERT SVENSSON

More than 100 years ago, Henry David Thoreau observed: "In wilderness is the preservation of the world."

This remarkable American author, naturalist, and giant of American letters loved American wildlife. In today's urbanized world, his words may have more than casual meaning. Man's last refuge may well be the wilderness.

Conservationists are people to be admired. Except for their diligence many animals and birds would today be extinct. Native forests and woodsheds would have vanished under the onslaught of man's need and greed.

This hurrah for conservation is inspired by a new medal just released by the Society of Medalists for its members.

The medal itself is most unique.

First, it forsakes the usual circular shape. It is of pentagon design, five sided. This was not caprice on the part of its designer, Donald R. Miller. Mr. Miller uses the five sides to symbolize five forms of natural life: mammal bird, fish, insect and reptile.

Miller chose living creatures found in America for the obverse (see illustration) design. They are: mountain goat, swallow, trout, butterfly and the snake.

The reverse depicts a setting for these creatures: mountains, pine trees and sun. The Thoreau quotation mentioned above appears in this setting.

Of interest to collectors is the Society of Medalists which has issued the medal. The purpose of this organization is to recognize the work of American sculptors.

Founded in 1930, the Society issues two medals each year. The most famous names in American Sculpture are represented in the 37-year collection.

An interesting situation

Take care of prisoner

Sweeney was a good policeman who had one year to go. He was outside Public School 24 at noon, mauling traffic, when he saw a man on a corner stab an old lady. It was more than shocking; Francis Xavier Sweeney knew that he could get in deep trouble for having seen it.

He collared the man and said: "Be quiet. You don't have to make a statement if you don't want to. You might incriminate yourself. You're entitled to a lawyer." The prisoner turned the body over with a touch of his shoe. "My grandma," he said, and removed his hat and held it over his head. "She refused to give me $50 for a fix."

"Fifty dollars!" Sweeney said. "Fifty . . . Ah," the man said. "You are telling me it's an overcharge. Then you admit you know something about narcotics traffic. Not just kiddie traffic. Big H for horse."

A crowd was collecting. "I'm taking you in on suspicion of homicide," Sweeney said. The man extended his hand. "Name is John Grass," he said. "Did you see me do it?" Sweeney nodded. "Then it isn't suspicion. Besides, shouldn't you get this poor old lady out of here?"

Calls ambulance

Sweeney called an ambulance. Then he brought the prisoner in to Lieutenant Delgado, who sat behind the desk at headquarters. "I don't like the way this cop drives," John Grass said. "He could kill a prisoner the way he takes the turns. I'm sitting quietly beside him and he brings me in code three." Delgado glared at Sweeney. "That," said Grass, "means with flashing red light and siren, in case you don't know."

"Can I help you?" Delgado said to John Grass. The suspect glanced forgivingly at the lieutenant. "Yeah," he said. "I think you can. First, get me a fix. Yeah, a fix. Call city hospital and tell them you got a prisoner who is in court because I'm out of my mind."

"Get this poor boy a chair," Delgado shouted at Sweeney. The cop said there weren't any chairs. "Then get the chief's chair," the lieutenant said. Sweeney went to the inner sanctum and slid the chief to the floor. "Sorry," he said. "We have a sensitive civil rights case. Could be an Escobedo or Gideon or something."

"That's okay," the chief muttered on the floor. "See if he likes cigars. I've got two left from my birthday." John Grass was busy explaining the law to Lt. Delgado. "Today," he said, "you shouldn't frisk me under the search and seizure act."

"That's not fair," Sweeney said. "You still got the knife you knocked the old lady off with." Grass sighed. "Please," he said, "do not refer to my sacred grandmother as 'that old lady.' Secondly, I did not knock her off. You think so because your eyeballs tell you so. Well, I'll have an ophthalmologist on the witness stand who will swear that you have unreliable eyeballs."

"Besides, let's be honest. What's a cop's word on the witness stand? Can you stand a polygraph test, Sweeney? Can you afford one question: 'Did you ever do anything dishonest in your life?' Ah, you see what I mean."

Delgado whispered: "What'd you bring him in for, Dummy? Want to get the whole department in trouble?" The chief came out. He was a doddering old man whose retirement papers were lost in the mail in 1935. He put an arm around John Grass. "Take it easy, son," he said. "Even cops make mistakes. What's the story?"

Ticks off story

Grass licked it off on his fingers. "First of all, I'm a deprived child. Neglected. Rejected. Second, policemen harass me all the time. Third, my old granny insisted on using her relief check for bread. Real bread. She warped me. I was standing with her minding my own business and I said: 'Dear old granny. Guess what I'm holding behind your back?' and she fell against it, giving the old bag a one way ticket to eternal reward. An act of God."

"For that, this cat picks me up," the chief glared at Sweeney. "You didn't," he said. Francis Xavier hung his head. "That foot," said John Grass, "is itchy, Chief. Would you remove the shoe, heel first please, and scratch it? That's a good boy. You know what? I'm in a mood to take it easy with you guys."

Delgado burst into uncontrollable sobs. "It's too much to expect," he moaned. "You're too good to us." Grass lifted a hand in benediction. "Chip in and give me enough to get me out of town," he said generously, "and we'll call it square."

"God bless you, son," the old chief said. Sweeney tried to muster a brave smile. "I'll take you in my car — sir," he said. Grass nodded. "Yeah, but I'm driving, Dummy."

Millions to hide millions

WASHINGTON — Cost-conscious Congressmen should be forgiven for barely being able to keep from throwing crockery at the bureaucrats involved in the "Big Dish" experiment in Sugar Grove, Va. The number of dollars wasted on this radio telescope project is only slightly less than the number of stars visible in the heavens on a clear night.

It kind of shakes you when you realize that the government spent $64 million on this idea before deciding that it was impractical and discontinuing it in 1962. You would think that somewhere along the line, long before blowing $64 million, the government would have had a twinkle of an idea that the observatory plan had gone wrong.

However, while taking no little abuse, the government came up with a way to save face, if not its $64 million. About a week after the "Big Dish" contract was cancelled, the Navy suddenly discovered that its long-range radio station at Cheltenham, Md., was experiencing "serious, electronic interference."

Move authorized

That Cheltenham for years seemed to be having no interference problem — until a need to utilize the Sugar Grove site came along — was not lost on observers. Nevertheless, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara immediately authorized the spending of $3.8 million to move the Maryland radio station to West Virginia. Only then did the Defense Department engage a firm to see if the West Virginia site would have interference, too. This firm reported that the West Virginia site was "superior" to the Maryland one, although it wasn't positive about it.

At this point the Navy began resisting the move to West Virginia. The Navy said interference in Maryland wasn't all that bad and, besides, there would be greater electronic problems in West Virginia.

This angered the Defense Department and it lashed back by giving another firm one million dollars for yet another study of the two sites. This study said that the West Virginia site wasn't any better than the Maryland site and that the Maryland site was pretty good.

As it stands, the Navy's radio station is still going to be moved and the various plans, studies, surveys, etc., have cost $5.6 million, on top of $64 million down the drain in the abandoned "Big Dish" scheme. The Government Accounting Office said the move itself will cost about $16.5 million.

So, we are moving a radio station which needn't be moved and wasting some $22 million in order to justify the waste of $54 million. And people ask why I love Washington.

Soon we may see farmers returning to the farms. If only to dig bomb shelters.

Song hit for next June: "Summertime — and the living is uneasy."

The Allen-Scott Report

Rostow key link in presidential race

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — As the true outline of the Kennedy-McCarthy-Johnson political confrontation on Vietnam begins to take shape, the man to watch is Dr. Walt Rostow, one of President Johnson's chief foreign policy makers.

Already his wide-ranging influence on the growing war debate is being felt in all three political camps.

In his present key position as special assistant to the President for national security affairs, Rostow has tremendous impact on United States Vietnam policy, since he tightly controls the flow of intelligence and policy papers to and from the President and is in charge of originating new ideas on how the war should be controlled. He was an architect of the administration's policy of "gradual escalation" and "limited response."

Rostow also has close personal ties in the Kennedy and McCarthy camps and is known to be in constant contact with their foreign policy advisers.

Rostow, for instance, was influential in the development of the blue ribbon commission on Vietnam proposal and the backstage maneuvering to get President Johnson to consider it.

From the inside

According to certain administration insiders, the original idea for the commission came from a proposal drafted by Dr. Rostow and Carl Kaysen, director of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton and a former White House associate of Rostow and one of those proposed by Kennedy to serve on the panel to study changes in Vietnam policy.

After Kaysen succeeded in selling the commission concept to Robert Kennedy, these insiders narrated, Rostow arranged for former White House Counsel Theodore Sorensen, one of Kennedy's chief advisers, to explore the idea with President Johnson.

Rostow then helped influence the President, during the White House meeting, to have Defense Secretary Clark Clifford discuss the proposal further with Sorensen and Kennedy.

After the Clifford meeting was set, Rostow contacted Richard Goodwin, another White House aide under Kennedy and Johnson, now serving as an adviser to McCarthy. In their conversation, Rostow got Goodwin to agree to get McCarthy's endorsement of the commission proposal if the President accepted it.

Since the President rejected it, McCarthy was not asked to make any statement. When a Johnson aide leaked the story that the proposal came from Kennedy, the New York senator issued his statement that the commission idea was explored, "in Clifford's words, not as a proposal by either of us."

Neither Clifford nor Kennedy have given any public clue where the commission idea originated.

Kennedy link

Rostow, one of the few Johnson aides that Kennedy has never publicly or privately blasted, has had a very close relationship with the New York senator since they first met during the 1960 election. Both served as advisers to the late President Kennedy.

While President Johnson appointed Rostow to his present White House position, it was Robert Kennedy, as attorney general, who originally cleared the way for Rostow to come into the government as a top policy maker in the Kennedy Administration.

He stepped in after Otto Otepka, a former career State Department security officer, had refused to grant Rostow an "emergency clearance" for a high State Department post in 1961, as described in an Otepka brief filed recently before a department hearing officer.

Robert Kennedy, then attorney general, took the matter out of Otepka's hands and President Kennedy appointed Rostow as a deputy to Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy. Clearance for this post was obtained through another security officer.

Rostow later was shifted to the State Department, where he became chairman of the powerful Policy Planning Council, which prepares foreign guidelines for the National Security Council, the government's highest policy planning group.

Otepka's brief also indicated that Rostow had had clearance withheld under the Eisenhower Administration by the Air Force and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Otepka, after reporting the 1961 Rostow incident to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, was relieved of his position and demoted. With the full backing of all members of the subcommittee, he is now appealing his case before the Civil Service Commission.

Rostow, who served in the Office of Strategic (OSS) during World War II, has vigorously opposed any U.S. military action to close Haiphong Harbor, through which North Vietnam receives more than 85 per cent of all her military supplies. In contrast, Rostow has constantly recommended that the number of American troops in Vietnam be increased.

In his public and private speeches, Rostow has taken the position that the Vietnam war will be won or lost in the U.S.—a decision that he apparently hopes to influence.

Howard Bush, Pocono Lake; James E. Doney, Pocono Pines, and Asher Dorshimer, Blakeslee, were the supervisors of Tobyhanna Township a half century ago.

There were a number double office holders in the local government setup for Tobyhanna Township in 1918.

Doney, in addition to being supervisor, was also an overseer of the poor.

Frank P. Blakeslee, however, was the busiest of all the officials, serving as assessor, justice of the peace and registration assessor of the Western District. Blakeslee lived at the Preserve.

Albert E. Herrick, Pocono Lake, was a justice of the peace and auditor.

There were five school directors and nine teachers, the latter employed for nine months at $45 to $80 per month.

These are your questions

We are avid readers of your newspaper column and are grateful for the advice you give, especially those that will relieve our family fears. Can you give me any information on birth control?

Mrs. K. A., Connecticut
Dear Mrs. A.: It always delights me to learn that my readers derive some relief from their fears and anxieties from my columns. This indeed is one of the major objectives I try to obtain.

As I have often said, newspaper columns and magazine articles are never a substitute for the specific information that can only be acquired from your doctor. He knows you, your problems, both physical and emotional, and is in the best possible position to supply you with the information you need.

There are many types of birth control pills, contraceptive devices and rhythm methods. Not all people can safely use the birth control pill.

Many have side-effects that do not permit the continued use. Some women must try a number of birth control pills before finding one that they are comfortable with.

Your physician and only your physician should prescribe and direct the use and continuance of the birth control pill.

We have two girls, twins, who were perfectly healthy until they began to go to kindergarten. They are now four-and-a-half years old and are never free from colds. Is this common?

Mrs. H. T., Illinois
Dear Mrs. T.: The growing pains of parents include your identical story. Before going to school children develop a moderate amount of immunity to "their own germs in their own homes."

When first they come in contact with other children the infections begin with a discouraging bang. After a while they subside and your children will begin to pass on their germs to those who follow them.

Don't be discouraged. We have all survived them and you will, too.

Missionary play given for WSCS

CANADENSIS — A missionary playlet "The Church in a Changing World" was presented at the meeting of the Canadensis Methodist Church Women's Society of Christian Service under the direction of Mrs. Verna Murray.

In the cast were Mrs. Oliver Seder, Mrs. Dwight Shaw, Mrs. Carl Spangenberg and Mrs. Joseph Civalier.

Plans were announced for a benefit party to be held in the church cottage. Mrs. Harold Beseker is in charge of arrangements and table reservations. Also planned is a rummage sale for May 3 and 4 in the church basement. Contributions may be left there before the sale.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

It's lucky that we had our own taste of Spring fever at the same time the news came from Florida, suggesting that I might as well come down because all of our readers had migrated down there and were making social news all over the place. On some of these recent cold and rainy days, I might have believed it.

However, the sunshine and those few balmy days brought you all out in sufficient numbers so that I could see for myself that I'm not all alone in the North, and the clubs are busy enough so that we're making news, too.

However, I'll bet Mayor Joe Small got the feeling that most of his constituents had preceded him to Florida. Since it was his first trip, all the Monroe Countians down there who have reached the status of old settlers really rolled out the red carpet for him, determined he should see everything.

Pier 66; Mai Kai, Gulf stream, dog races, golf matches and country club dances. With Stiles and Henri Baldwin were Evan and Bobby Reese, and a few blocks away were Olaf and Joyce Pedersen, who are having such a ball that they're stretching their stay, and Cap and Arlyne Curtis who have since left for home.

Add Al and Jeanette Groner and the Kerlins, the Denglers and Fred and Irma Titus who joined them later and you've got a gang, most of whom turn up on Sundays for a sail on Helen and Bob Ahnert's boat. It all sounds tres gay, but the word will undoubtedly trickle down that the robins are home, now; and can our other migrating birds be far behind?

Rebekah installation banquet set

NEWFOUNDLAND — A slate of officers, elected during the March meeting of the Past Noble Grand Association of Ladies of Paupack Rebekah Lodge 559, Newfoundland, will be installed during the banquet meeting on April 1, at the Country Hearth Restaurant at Blueberry Hill, Route 191, South Sterling.

Mrs. Irene Shupe, of Newfoundland, will be seated as president, succeeding Miss Agnes Waltz, also of Newfoundland. Other officers include Miss Alice Megargle, South Sterling, vice president; Mrs. Betty Carlton, South Sterling, secretary; and Mrs. Tillie Smith, Newfoundland, treasurer.

Community Lenten service

PORTLAND — The first community Lenten service will be held Thursday night, March 28, at the Portland Baptist Church of which Rev. Norman Lake is pastor. It was announced at the morning service at the Portland-Mount Bethel Community Presbyterian Church by Rev. Charles Cummings, pastor.

Prize winners

BY LINDA PIPHER

STROUDSBURG — A couple of weeks ago I gave you the recipe for the $25,000 winner of the annual Pillsbury's Bake-Off, a buttercream pound cake. Today I have the recipes for three other big winners.

Bacon Bread
6 slices bacon, diced
1 package Pillsbury's Hot Roll Mix
1 1/2 teaspoons instant minced onion
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 teaspoon milk
1 egg, beaten

Fry bacon until cooked, but not crisp. Drain. Prepare hot roll mix as directed on package, adding onion along with flour mixture. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in size, 30 to 45 minutes. In small bowl, blend cream cheese and milk until smooth. Set aside.

Roll out dough on floured surface to a 12 inch square. Spread with cheese mixture and sprinkle with bacon pieces. Fold in half. Roll out again to a 12 inch square. Cut dough into three four inch strips. Pinch one end of each strip together to join; braid. Pinch remaining ends together. Fit into generously greased 9 x inch loaf pan.

Let rise until doubled in size, 30 to 45 minutes. Brush beaten egg over top of loaf. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes or until loaf is golden brown and sounds hollow when tapped on top. Cool in pan for 10 minutes before removing.

Mrs. J. David Taylor, Dallas Texas won $5,000.00 in the refrigerated dough category for this ingenious lasagna recipe using refrigerated crescent dinner rolls instead of noodles.

Crafty Crescent Lasagne

MEAT FILLING:
1/2 lb. sausage
1/2 lb. ground beef
Three-fourths cup chopped onion
1/2 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1/2 teaspoon leaf basil
1/2 teaspoon leaf oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Cheese Filling
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 egg
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Crust
2 cans Pillsbury Refrigerated Quick Crescent Dinner Rolls
2 slices (7x4 inches) Mozzarella cheese

1 tablespoon milk
1 tablespoon sesame seed
Meat Filling: In large skillet, brown meat; drain. Add onion, garlic, parsley, tomato paste and seasonings. Simmer, uncovered for 5 minutes.

CHEESE FILLING: Combine all ingredients
CRUST: Unroll crescent dough and separate into 8 rectangles. Place rectangles of dough together on ungreased cookie sheet, overlapping edges slightly to form about a 15 x 13 inch rectangle. Press edges and perforations to seal.

Spread half of Meat Filling lengthwise down center half of dough to within 1 inch of each 13 inch end. Top Meat Filling with Cheese Filling; spoon remaining Meat Filling over top, forming 3 layers. Place cheese slices over Meat Filling.

Fold 13 inch ends of dough rectangle over filling 1 inch. Pull long sides of dough rectangle over filling, being careful to overlap edges only 1/4-inch. Pinch overlapped edges to seal. Brush with milk; sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until deep golden brown.

I think it's interesting to note that the $2,000.00 first prize in the Junior Division was won by a 12-year-old boy, Peter Russell! Maybe I should get Billy busy in the kitchen!

Poppin' Fresh Barbecues
Three-fourths lb. ground beef
1/2 cup barbecue sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon instant minced onion

1 can Pillsbury Refrigerated Baking powder Biscuits
Three-fourths cup shredded Cheddar cheese

In large skillet, brown ground beef; drain. Add barbecue sauce, brown sugar and onion. Set aside. Separate biscuit dough into 12 biscuits. Place one biscuit in each of 12 ungreased muffin cups pressing dough up sides to edge of cup. Spoon meat mixture into cups. Sprinkle each with cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown.

Note: Three-fourths cup pasteurized process cheese spread can be substituted for Cheddar cheese. Spoon 1 tablespoon on each meat filled cup.

I'm sorry that I don't have room to give you the recipe for the Toffee Breaks shown in the lower right hand corner of the photo, but I will give it to you in the next column.

Fellowship trip Sunday

HAMILTON SQUARE — The L. F. Fers of Christ Hamilton Lutheran Church, more formally the Lutheran Fellowship, have planned a bus trip to the Good Shepherd Home in Allentown on Sunday, March 24. They will leave the church in Hamilton Square at 1:30 p.m.

Filter papers are now available for percolators — the top-of-the-range or the electric kind.

Book fair seeking discards

STROUDSBURG — With spring house cleaning just ahead the committee in charge of the annual Book Fair of the American Assn. of University Women is reminding women that donations of books culled from the shelves are always welcome.

The Book Fair, to be held this year, July 1 through July 6, is enjoyed by hundreds of visitors each summer during its stay in the Keystone Room at Wyckoff's. The proceeds are used for local scholarships and international fellowships.

The committees are already at work rounding up books. They will accept whole libraries for families which may be moving into smaller quarters or individual books left over after housecleaning. Those wishing to have books collected may call the general chairman, Mrs. James F. Marsl during the daytime or Mrs. Arthur Slee at night.

Church library being formed

PORTLAND — A library has been set up in the balcony of the Portland Methodist Church. It was announced at the official board meeting at the parsonage. Donations of books will be welcome.

Rev. David McLaughlin also suggested that a list of church records be made and kept on file.

A moving picture "The Gospel According to Matthew" will be shown Sunday, April 21, in the Pen Argy Club.

A sunrise service was planned for Easter morning at Hartzell's Hill, Mount Bethel.

Miss Donna Jane Albert

Albert-Ace betrothal announced

STROUDSBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Albert of Stroudsburg, RD 1, announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Jane, to Robert Keller Ace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley T. Ace of 315 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Miss Albert is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and is employed as a secretary in the library at East Stroudsburg State College.

Mr. Ace is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and Lackawanna Junior College and is now attending Bloomsburg State College.

An August wedding is planned.

Progressive club visits Holy Lands

SAVILORSBURG — The Holy Lands in words and pictures marked the Lenten meeting of the Progressive Woman's Club of Savilorsburg with members of the Pen Argy Club as guests.

Richard Frantz, opening with a prayer for the Lenten season, spoke of his travels in the Holy Lands. He was introduced by Mrs. Robert Rinker, chairman of international affairs.

Mrs. Clayton Snyder opened the meeting with St. Patrick's Day greetings. The invocation by Mrs. Anna Serfas was followed by silent prayer in memory of Mrs. Robert Biniek.

Miss Margaret Albright read an appeal for Easter Seals for crippled children.

Mrs. John Boka, president of the Pen Argy Club, spoke briefly and introduced the members from Pen Argy.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Elmer Veety and her committee.

Scout troop attends church

REEDERS — Members of the Girl Scout Troop of Reeders, Troop 369, opened Girl Scout Week by attending worship Sunday in the Reeders Methodist Church with their leader, Mrs. Homer Hennings. Assistant leaders, Mrs. Victoria Kays and Mrs. Shirley Curtis also attended with the members.

Obituaries

Leland Rokes,
68, dies
in Florida

EAST STROUDSBURG — Leland S. Rokes, 68, of 133 Center St., East Stroudsburg, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Flagler Hospital in St. Augustine, Florida, after suffering an apparent heart attack in a restaurant in St. Augustine on Friday at 9 a.m.

Mr. Rokes was the husband of the late Nettie Pugh Rokes who died 13 months ago. He was born in Warren, Maine, a son of the late Sidney L. and Floy Hopkins Rokes.

He was a retired pastry chef and had worked at Buck Hill Falls and several other Pocono Mountain resorts as well as in Florida. He has lived in East Stroudsburg since 1958.

He was a member of George N. Kemp Post of American Legion, East Stroudsburg; Thomas F. Lambert Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the MORA Club, both of Stroudsburg; the United Veterans of Monroe County and the Yankee Division Club, Boston, Mass. He had served in World War I in the U. S. Army and was overseas for 18 months.

He is survived by a son, Richard Rokes, Bellaire, Texas; a stepson, Fred Pugh, Springfield, Pa., and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the William H. Clark Funeral Home with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Burial will be in the Stroudsburg Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home on Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

West End man hurt in crash

DANIELSVILLE — Willard Switzgabel, 31, of Kunkletown, R.D. 1, is in critical condition in Sacred Heart Hospital, Allentown following a two-car crash on Rt. 946 Thursday.

The accident occurred at 3:30 a.m. in Lehigh Twp., near here. Switzgabel is being treated for multiple leg and rib fractures, possible skull fracture, and cuts of the knees and face.

According to Lehigh Twp. police, a car driven by Ralph Washburn, 19, of Bath, R.D. 2, went out of control, crossed the highway and crashed headon into the Switzgabel car.

Washburn is in the hospital also and is being treated for cuts of the eyes and scalp.

Krawitz for private enterprise

HONESDALE — East Stroudsburg attorney Edwin Krawitz, candidate for representative in the General Assembly, told a Wayne County group that "our free enterprise system must be guarded carefully from the encroachments of government."

Krawitz, a native of Wayne County, spoke at a meeting Thursday night of the Wayne County Fuel Oil Dealers Assn. at Kreitners Restaurant in Honesdale.

Stating that he strongly supports the independent businessman, Krawitz said, "I hold dear the principle of private enterprise, and I reject the idea of government controlled, monopolistic industries which border on socialism." He stated that if government monies were not being spent in competing with private enterprises in certain segments of our economy, government expenditures could be reduced and taxes lowered.

In appealing for support for his candidacy, Krawitz said, "I have been an active practitioner of law and sincerely believe that I can help to get things done — things that should be done, in the legislature."

"Knowledge of the people and problems of this area have taught me that a man must stand up and speak."

Two still in critical condition

EAST STROUDSBURG — A Monroe County man and woman are in critical condition in the intensive care unit at the General Hospital of Monroe County following a one-car crash early Friday morning in East Stroudsburg.

The injured are Emily Howey, 53, of Anasomink and a passenger in her car, Henry Kammer, 48, of East Stroudsburg, R.D. 3.

The hospital had no other information other than a condition report.

According to East Stroudsburg police, the Howey car was traveling north at 2 a.m. on Rt. 447, on Franklin Hill, toward the blinker light on N. Courtland St., when the car struck a utility pole.

The force of the crash broke the pole in two and tore down some electrical wires. The wires disrupted service to some of the homes but repairs were quickly made by men from the utility company.

Police said the car was a total loss and estimated $200 in property damage.

B. A. Hallet succumbs in hospital

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Bertha A. Hallet, Stroudsburg, R.D. 2, died in the General Hospital of Monroe County Friday morning.

Born in Scranton, she was a daughter of the late Joseph and Elizabeth Wetherby Bush and a resident of Monroe County for many years. Her late husband, Clarence X. Hallet, was the first school bus driver in the county.

Mrs. Hallet was a member of the East Stroudsburg Township Fire Company.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. George Povey, Mrs. John C. Parker and Mrs. Walter H. Staples, all of Stroudsburg; two brothers, George Bush, Stroudsburg and Arthur Bush, Escondido, Calif.; four granddaughters and eight great grandchildren.

Strictly private funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. on Monday in the Dunkelberger and Kofach Funeral Home with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating. Burial will be in the Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home on Sunday after 7 p.m.

Local firm low bidder

EAST STROUDSBURG — An unofficial low bid of $91,469 for the replacement of a stoker at East Stroudsburg State College was submitted by the H. L. Cleveland Co., Inc., East Stroudsburg, to the General State Authority.

The bid was about nine and one-half per cent more than the allocation of $83,500, said Robert L. Kunzig, GSA executive director.

The project includes the removal of the stoker unit and the ash pit, modifications to the coal handling equipment and the fire box and installation of a new oil and gas-fired unit. Work is scheduled for completion by August 15.

'Out of patience clinic' not our switchboard gal

By JACK LEVY
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — "This is an emergency."

"Calling Dr. Jordan, calling Dr. Jordan..."

"May I have the intentional care unit, please?"

Ruth Staples, veteran switchboard operator in the General Hospital of Monroe County, lives in a world of words.

Unknown and unseen by most of the public, she is the voice of the hospital as well as the go-between for patients, doctors, nurses and the administration, and has been at the switchboard for the past 17 years.

"I should have kept notes or a diary," Mrs. Staples said Friday, "because I would have had enough material to write a book. Of course, I couldn't tell everything, you know."

"People sure are funny, and I have all I can do, at times, to keep from laughing right in the phone."

"For example," Mrs. Staples related, "what do you tell a caller who wants to speak to the lavatory? Or wants to be connected with the out-of-patience clinic?"

"Other classics I have had are requests to speak to Exit 432... may I have the laundrymat... please connect me with the collection department... give me the out-going nurses, please..."

"Kin I talk to the office what takes the blood tests?"

"In fact," Mrs. Staples laughed, "just the other day

MRS. RUTH STAPLES—Communications Specialist

I had a caller who wanted to know if the hospital was approved by the State Department of Health. Seems that they wanted a blood test for a marriage license."

"Then there are some people who think a hospital is like a hotel. I had a caller who said, 'I want to reserve a room for an operation.' But I just referred her to her own physician," Mrs. Staples said.

"And I could go on and on with the humorous side of this job, but the bad side, the sad side, let's not discuss."

When Ruth Staples first took over her duties in 1951, Dr. Charles Flagler was chief of staff at the hospital and the new East and West wings were just built. There were less than 100 beds in the facility and about half the number of doctors on the staff.

"Things are sure different these days," Mrs. Staples recalled.

"I had been working at the college bookstore — for about 13 years, I think — and then when I heard there was an opening at the hospital, I came in and applied for it, and got the job."

"To say the least, working here on the switchboard has been far more interesting and exciting than the other job," Mrs. Staples said.

Apparently, life is interesting for the energetic widow. Her husband, Raymond Staples, who had been employed as a silk-weaver for many years, died in 1963. Since that time, Mrs. Staples has lived alone in a little yellow bungalow at 221 McKinley Ave. in the Sides Mills section of East Stroudsburg, with her son, "Buddy," as a companion.

"Buddy is part spirit with the other part quackable," she laughed, "but really comes into the house or even into my car, without Buddy's approval."

Mrs. Staples, born in Scranton, went to school in Clarks Summit before moving to Monroe County. Her nearest relatives are two sisters and a brother, living in Chicago, West Chester and Sidney, N. Y.

"So I am really on my own, and I like it that way. I have my own car and my own good health, and most of all, I have a fascinating job that is interesting as well as rewarding," Mrs. Staples said.

"Besides all that," she said, chuckling, "maybe someday I'll write that book."

Taxation on earned income may generate controversy

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

Wally Ballou, quite forlorn, wished that he was never born.

Why? Because of taxes.

STROUDSBURG — The inevitable adoption of a one per cent earned income tax by the Stroudsburg Area School District sparked what seems to be a heated behind-the-scenes controversy of where the public's tax dollar is needed most.

The school officials seemed to indicate that the public's tax dollar takes precedence when it comes to financing the education of children.

The officials of the municipalities where the families live don't quite look at it that way, however.

The Stroudsburg Area School District stands to gain an estimated $288,000 in revenue from the one per cent earned income tax which it will adopt before July 1.

The School District estimated that it will collect 75 per cent of this total estimated tax from the district residents which is $223,500.

Need it all

School district officials say they need all of it this year since they have a $200,000 deficit in the budget.

The four municipalities within the school district are legally entitled to 50 per cent of the earned income tax. Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap Boroughs and Stroud and Hamilton Townships are in the school district.

School officials estimated that the earned income tax will net approximately $112,200 from Stroud Township. The township is entitled to $66,100 of this tax provided that the township supervisors also adopt the earned income tax.

The school officials earlier this month requested the municipalities not to take 50 per cent of the tax since the school district needs it. The school board members suggested that a mutual percentage sharing should be worked out such as 70 per cent for the school district and 30 per cent for the municipalities or perhaps 80-20. A 60-40 ratio was even suggested.

Informed sources indicated, however, that Stroud Township will seek its full 50 per cent.

School District officials were visibly perturbed over this possible action by the township since the supervisors did not consult the Board of Education.

Both Ray Roberts, president of the Stroudsburg Board of Education, and John Baymore, treasurer, had asked the municipal officials to consult with the school board before making a firm decision.

Adoption date

Stroud Township supervisors cannot legally adopt the earned income tax until the beginning of their new fiscal year in 1969.

School officials seem convinced, however, that the Stroud Township supervisors will adopt the tax and ask for the 50 per cent share.

Baymore said that if Stroud Township demands its 50 per cent, then Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap Borough in addition to Hamilton Township will also have to be given the 50 per cent.

"Otherwise it would be inequitable taxation," Baymore said. The other municipalities can, however, take a 30 per cent share.

Some township officials indicated that they may as well demand their entitled share of one-half the tax since they would probably be blamed for the tax anyway.

The school board feels that the municipalities should have them some break on the tax sharing since the school board is the only governing body which can initiate the tax.

A local municipal official said Friday, however, that the municipality probably will be able to cut the millage when it receives 50 per cent of the tax.

Roberts said Friday that the one per cent earned income tax is not a matter of raising additional revenues per se, but rather a matter of need. And the school board needs it more than the municipalities, he added.

Another school official said that "we want to build schools and they want to build garages."

A similar situation is looming within the East Stroudsburg Area School District. East Stroudsburg originally introduced the earned income tax proposal in Monroe County

McCarthy unit publishes open letter

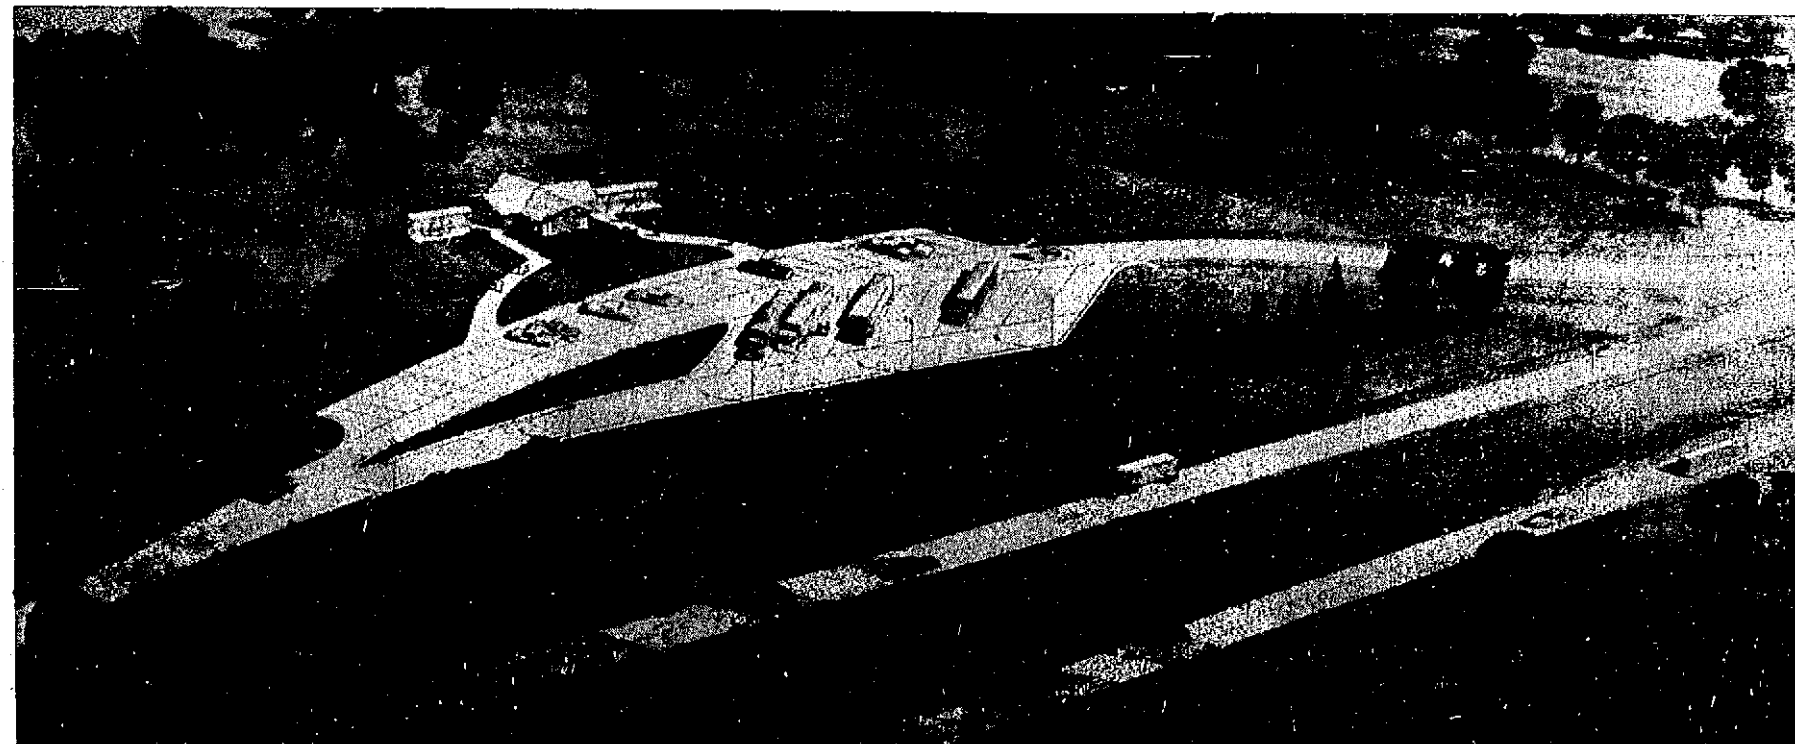

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County McCarthy for President Committee Friday published an open letter to the Citizens of the County, and registered Democrats in particular, endorsing Senator Eugene McCarthy for President.

The letter appears on page three in today's edition of The Pocono Record.

In the letter, the Committee presents the candidate "as the man most needed in America in this time of crisis."

The letter also touches on America's growing isolation because of the war, the debt crisis, urban riots that "may soon grow into civil war" and the growing military-industrial complex in this country.

The Committee will hold its fourth regular meeting at 7 p.m. Sunday at which its students from various universities, Ithaca, N. Y., will be special guests.

Cook beaten in semifinal match; former champion pins Schumacher

End of a champion; Gary Cook bows out

UNIVERSITY PARK — A National Champion has that little bit of something extra when he needs it.

Friday night in Recreation Hall on the Penn State University Campus East Stroudsburg State's Gary Cook did not have that something extra, and he will not be a national champion.

Cook had every chance to win his semifinal bout against Nick Corollo of Adams State.

Cook lost the bout standing on his feet refusing to shoot for a bout winning takedown in overtime.

A wrestling fan will never be able to understand what makes a wrestler who needs a point to win refuse to try for that point.

This is just what Cook did Friday night before about 8,000 fans.

Maybe the strength just ran out on the best Warrior wrestler of all time.

Remember, he was the high school state champion in 1961, that is a long time ago. Maybe, Cook just got too old at 27 to continue to play the game of college wrestling with all the zest and determination it takes.

True, he zoomed through the season undefeated, but in Pennsylvania State College ranks, he is a legend and few, if anyone, wanted to wrestle him.

Even at that, his performance this year was not spectacular and here at the nationals he was not impressive in his preliminary wins.

This is the second straight year Cook got to the semifinals in the nationals. Last year, he was beaten by Mike Bradley, 9-5, after giving up five points in the first period.

The word then was that Cook would have won if it wasn't for the five points Bradley scored in one move.

This year, there can be no excuses. Cook lost a match that he had every opportunity to win. He lost it himself.

However, all good things must come to an end and Friday night, Gary Cook bowed out.

UNIVERSITY PARK — Gary Cook's eagerness to score a pin Friday possibly cost him a national wrestling championship.

Cook lost a referee's split decision to Nick Corollo of Adams State in NCAA semifinal action on the Penn State University mats, dropping the East Stroudsburg State College senior from the competition.

Cook advanced to the semifinal bout after an easy 8-0 decision over Terry Crenshaw of Stanford. After that match Cook said, "I felt a lot better today than yesterday," and felt it was one of his best showings.

In that match Cook scored a 4-0 lead after two periods and wrapped a cradle on Crenshaw in the third for a 6-0 lead. Two time points gave him the shutout, 8-0.

East Stroudsburg ace heavy-weight Rich Schumacher, however, failed to survive the quarter finals, losing by a fall to Dave Porter of Michigan in 4:09. Porter is the 1966 NCAA champion and will be shooting for another title tonight in final action.

Cook's defeat came at the hands of the second seeded Corollo in a match that went like this:

With no score in the first period, Corollo pulled a second period escape after Cook had piled up a full minute and a half of riding time to make the score 1-0 Corollo after two periods.

In the third period Cook managed to tie the score 1-1 with an escape, before Corollo scored a single leg takedown, the first time the East Stroudsburg State star has been taken down this year, making the score 3-1.

Cook then escaped making it 3-2 when the buzzer sounded. Riding time knotted the score at 3-3 at the end of regulation time.

In three one-minute overtime periods both wrestlers failed to score in the first. The Adams State grappler escaped in the second overtime period to lead 1-0.

A third period escape by Cook gave him a 1-1 tie when the bout ended.

The three officials judging the bout gave a 2-1 decision to Corollo ending Cook's title hopes.

In other action National Champion Fred Fozzard at 177 was defeated in a surprise match by Bob Justice of Colorado, 4-0. Before besting the Oklahoma star, Justice had beaten Jim Harter of Army 7-6 in quarter final action.

A note to area wrestling fans: Mike Bradley, last year's 177 pound runner up from Michigan State was also beaten. Bradley was topped 5-4 by Charles Schiver of Oklahoma. Bradley is the wrestler who beat Cook last year in a semifinal match.

Lock Haven's Ken Melchior continued to breeze through the opposition with the right to wrestle for the 115 title tonight against Lorenzo of UCLA.

In another upset top seeded Rich Lorenzo of Penn State at 191, the man many thought Cook would face for the title, was defeated by Tom Kline of Cal Poly 2-1. Kline is national small college champion and won with a late reversal over Lorenzo.

Two Warriors went into late Friday consolation matches as Schumacher took Henry Muller of Oregon State in another referee's decision.

After a 1-1 bout and a 1-1 overtime match a unanimous decision gave the win to the East Stroudsburg State Heavyweight.

Schumacher and Cook will both wrestle in today's consolation while finals are set for tonight in the Penn State Recreation Hall.

Oklahoma in NCAA lead

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Favored Oklahoma State faded out of contention Friday night as bitter-rival Oklahoma took the lead after the semifinal round of the 38th annual NCAA wrestling championships.

Oklahoma State started the quarterfinals in the afternoon with eight contenders and wound up nine hours later with one survivor. Among the Cowboy losers was defending 177-pound national champion, Fred Fozzard, dropping his first match in 43 over a two-season period.

Oklahoma's Sooners, coached by Tommy Evans, were first with 65 points and four men in Saturday's finals.

Iowa State, also in the Big Eight Conference, was second with 57 points and three finalists. Oklahoma State was third at 36.

Defending champion Michigan State, its hopes jolted when Jeff Smith was beaten by Michigan's Dave Porter in the heavy-weight division, held fourth with 30 points, two ahead of Portland (Ore.) State.

Of the 22 finalists in the 11 weight divisions, only two—Ken Melchior, Lock Haven (Pa.) State's 115-pounder, and Navy's John Kent, 152, were from eastern schools.

After the quarterfinals, Oklahoma State had only defending 177-pound champion Fred Fozzard, Wayne Keller at 123 and Bob Drebenstedt at 167, still in the championship bracket.

Oklahoma, which began Friday's competition with seven alive, wound up with winners in defending 130-pound champion Dave McGlory, Mike Grant (145), Wayne Wells (152), Cleo McGlory (169) and unseeded Charlie Shivers (177).

Iowa State, which finished third to Oklahoma State and Oklahoma in the Big Eight race, still had unbeaten Dan Gable in the 130-pound class, Dale Bahr at 145, Jason Smith at 167 and Reggie Wicks at 160.

Grady Penning, Michigan State's 1967 coach-of-the-year, had hopefuls remaining in Dale Anderson, defending 137-pound champion, Dale Carr, a 145-pounder who eliminated Phil Frey of Oregon State and heavy-weight Jeff Smith.

Frey had turned in the big upset of the preliminary competition Thursday when he defeated Don Henderson, defending 145-pound champion from the Air Force Academy.

$100 an inch? Not bad for high jumper

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pitt high jumper might cost a salesman $900 this spring.

But Pete Bennett says he'll gladly sell out the money. In fact, he's asking for it.

Bennett says he'll donate $100 to the Bellefield Scholarship Fund at Pitt for every inch freshman high jumper Brian Salter goes over the school's old high jump record.

Bennett holds the old record of 6 feet, 6 1/2 inches. He set it in 1938 at a National Inter-Collegiate Championship meet at Minnesota University.

Now comes Salter. Salter was jumping almost 6 feet, 6 inches at Pittsburgh's South Hills High School. In February, the 18-year-old liberal arts major jumped 6 feet, 10 inches at the Philadelphia Track Classics, an indoor invitational meet.

There's been much speculation as to how high Salter can really jump. He's already broken the indoor record at Pitt with a 6 feet, 8 inches jump.

Dayton one point underdogs

Kansas slim favorite to capture NIT crown today

NEW YORK (AP)—The tall, deep Jayhawks of Kansas were favored by just one point Friday to beat Dayton's streaking basketball Flyers for the championship of the National Invitation Tournament today.

Another sellout crowd of 19,500 was assured at Madison Square Garden although the title contest will be telecast locally as well as nationally by CBS. Starting time is 2 p.m., EST.

Notre Dame, edged 76-74 in overtime by Dayton in the semifinals Thursday night, will meet St. Peter's N.J., trounced 58-46 by Kansas, for third place. This game will start at noon.

It could boil down to a battle between Dayton's Don May, a 6-foot-4 gunner, and Jo Jo White, the 6-3 Kansas playmaker and outside shooting threat. Either one figures to be the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

May has scored 84 points in leading Dayton to victories over West Virginia, 87-68, Fordham, 61-60, and Notre Dame. White has scored only 45 in triumphs over Temple, 82-76, Villanova 55-49, and St. Peter's. The Jayhawks, however, usually divide their scoring among three or four players with White setting up the plays.

Kansas will have an inch height advantage among the starting teams and a much bigger edge in going to the bench. This could be decisive on the rebounding. With its big men clogging the middle Kansas uses a zone defense. Dayton plays man-to-man.

Dayton, winner of the NIT in 1962, has won 13 straight. Kansas, in its first NIT, has won six straight.

Middletown cops 'B' title in PIAA championship game

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Middletown High School raced to a 78-48 victory over East Brady Friday night to win the PIAA Class B high school basketball championship in the second game of a doubleheader at the Civic Arena.

In the first game, Mount Penn edged Williamsburg 62-61 for the Class C title with Bob Romanski scoring the winning points on two foul shots with two seconds remaining.

The scholastic basketball season draws to a close here Saturday night when Laurel Highlands WPIAL champion, meets undefeated Cheltenham of suburban Philadelphia for the Class A crown.

The victors in the Class B and Class C finals are both from District 3.

Middletown never trailed as it garnered its first state championship. Harold Brown led the Blue Raiders' balanced scoring attack with 21 points. P.J. Campbell had 16 for the losers.

Middletown's top scorer for the year, Dave Twardzik, sat on the bench for most of the game after getting in foul trouble in the first quarter but the Raiders never missed him. Their pressing man-for-man defense proved disruptive to East Brady, which had numerous shots blocked throughout the game.

East Brady, with an enrollment of only 250 students, could have competed in Class C this year but chose to play in Class B. The Clarion County school obviously was outclassed by Middletown.

The victory in the Class C game gave Mount Penn its first state title. Williamsburg, which led most of the game, was going for its third state crown.

McGuire Trophy goes to Cards

CRESCO — A Basketball Trophy Awards Assembly was held at the Pocono Mountain Junior - Senior High School Friday. Ronald G. Davis, director of athletics at the high school, welcomed the assembly and thanked the students and the faculty for their participation and support of the basketball team during the 1967-68 season.

Davis presented the Lehigh - Northampton League Trophy to Kathy Werheiser, captain, and Mrs. Catherine Rowe, girls basketball coach. The girls varsity basketball team finished the season with 12 wins and one loss.

Frank E. Lanterman, Varsity E Club representative, presented to Gary Kirkwood and John Gantzhorn, co-captains of the boys varsity and to Allen Shollenberger, coach, the Frank P. McGuire Memorial Trophy. The trophy is awarded yearly to the Monroe County High School Basketball team with the best record. During the 1967 - 68 season the Pocono Mountain High School team won 16 games and lost 6.

Davis introduced Thomas Lewis, one of the sponsors of the Lewis Brothers Trophy and Alfred Dowalby and Joseph Lewis, co-captains of the Pocono Central Catholic High School basketball team, who presented the Lewis Brothers Trophy to John Gantzhorn and Gary Kirkwood, co-captains of the Pocono Mountain High School basketball team. The Pocono Mountain High School basketball team in defeating the Pocono Central Catholic team four consecutive times retain permanent possession of the trophy.

Music during the program was supplied by the "Pep Band" under the direction of Russell Speicher.

JIM MURRAY

Frantic Fregosi

PALM SPRINGS — It appeared to be a routine flyball to the edge of the outfield grass. Jim Fregosi checked the barometric pressure, the curvature of the earth, the position of the sun in the heavens, reassured himself that the left fielder had misjudged, and settled back to do battle with it.

It may have been the most missed flyball in history. It fell someplace in the NORTH TEMPERATE ZONE, while Fregosi was several degrees latitude to the south and west of it. The ball came to rest so far away, if it was a bird, he would have needed a dog to go get it.

Without hesitating, Jim Fregosi disappeared into the dugout and came out wearing a helmet. In the enemy dugout, the chirping started. "Hey, No. 11, you need Leon Wagner's hat!" shouted Willie Smith. "At least Wagner gets his head under those," the Cleveland Catcher observed.

It was a good thing it had happened to Jim Fregosi. For two reasons. In the first place, if it had happened to some young "phenom," he would have been on the bus to Holtville by nightfall with lunch money pinned to his pocket.

And if it had happened to anyone else on the team, Jim Fregosi would never have let him forget it. Jim Fregosi is the needle of the California Angels. When a teammate comes in the dugout after missing a pretty good curve ball and mutters "What was the pitch?" Fregosi answers innocently, "It was a gopher ball. The last time he threw it, I broke three seats in center field." Let a pitcher have a struggle retiring four of the best hitters in the league, and he gets no sympathy from Fregosi. "You're keeping those guys in baseball," he will grumble.

Fregosi keeps the game loose. As a bench jockey, he has a voice that is a cross between a boy soprano and a magpie scolding a cat. He has had a major league tongue since the day he came into the game. Sometimes it obscures what is very possibly the best 25-year-old talent in the game. He never finishes higher than eighth in the Most-Valuable-Player balloting, but there is little doubt he is the MVP of the Angels. He is the Old Pro on a team in a game where guys his age are still thought to be "promising if they don't rush him." Only two other guys were in the original cast of characters claimed by the Angels seven years ago in the expansion draft. Fregosi wasn't even shaving at the time.

He leads the club in everything but stolen watches — games (844), at bats (3,102), runs, hits, probably even errors, doubles and triples. He is second in home runs (67) and lifetime average (.277), but he leads in total bases, runs batted in, and extra-base hits. He led the club in average, hits, triples and doubles last year.

He has had only one bad season. In 1966, he decided he had better close the gap between himself and Babe Ruth, and he began to swing at the ball like it was a guy crawling in his bedroom window at 2 in the morning. His average suffered, and he still ended the season about 700 homers behind Ruth.

"My strength is taking the curveball and hitting it to right," admits Fregosi. "My goal this year is 200 hits. I'd like to reach 1,000 games and 1,000 hits, too. But I particularly would like to reach the World Series."

If the Angels reach the World Series — and they're 8-to-1 not to — Fregosi would be 4-to-5 to make Most Valuable Player. He fell a mere 205 votes short of Carl Yastrzemski's winning 275 last year, but there were a few sure Hall-of-Fame players who fell even shorter.

There can be little doubt Fregosi is the best shortstop in baseball. There are four teams in each league who could start making World Series.

Gray slacks for AL umpires

BOSTON (AP) — The American League's "boys in blue" will be outfitted this baseball season with gray slacks, the league announced Tuesday.

The jackets will be the same blue as they have been for years, but the slacks are of a hue termed "Madison Avenue gray."

The new outfits will be worn for the first time at the season's opener April 8 in Washington.

Righthander looking for starting job

Wise still unhappy with Phillies

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Every time Rick Wise throws a pitch this season, he'll see general manager John Quinn of the Phillies at the plate.

Wise was a holdout who missed the first 2½ weeks of spring training before signing a contract. His first day in camp, Wise made it no secret he wasn't happy.

"It was a compromise," he said in the clubhouse before a recent workout. "I wasn't happy

Little League registration set

EAST STROUDSBURG — Applicants for the East Stroudsburg Little League will meet to sign Monday through Friday from 4 to 8 p.m. at 225 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

All applicants must be eight years old or over and be accompanied by a parent with a birth certificate for the youngsters.

Boys in the Bushkill area may sign at Ray Steele's service station, Bushkill.

Players who registered last year need not register again this year.

when I agreed. I'm still not happy. I'm 50 to 60 per cent satisfied. But the contract is not final. If I get off to a good start, another contract can be tendered."

The 22-year-old Wise felt his 11-11 record of 1967 was misleading. "Mr. Quinn based his offer on the fact I was a 500 pitcher," he said. "I was 9-5 the last part of the season when I became a starter. He said he wants to see consistency. If I do it again I'll get what I want."

Wise said he wasn't going to let the contract fight affect his pitching. "With Jim Bunning gone," he said, "I have a real opportunity to start 35 to 40 games. If I come back with a good year, I'll remember it (the compromise)."

The bespectacled righthander does have a problem even before the season begins. He belongs to a National Guard unit which meets every Tuesday night from 7 p.m.-11 p.m., and the last weekend of each month — all weekend. He's going to have to get to these meetings from wherever the club is playing. Five absences and you're activated for 18 months duty.

Wise said he finally came to terms because it was reaching the critical point of spring training. He wanted to get in shape before the season opens. Although he has been running and exercising, he hasn't been throwing.

Wise began the 1967 season in the bullpen and ended up the club's fourth starter. He was below .500 all season until he beat San Francisco in his final start. On Aug. 1 his record was 2-6. The Phillies, feeling the 6-foot-2 inch Michigan native may be the next star righthander in the National League, had him in the winter instructional league in Florida, and sent him to Puerto Rico for winter baseball.

Wise attributes his late season improvement to development of a changeup curve ball, better knowledge of the hitters and learning to keep the ball down. He said starting in rotation also helped mature him as a pitcher.

Wise credits Larry Shepard,

last year's Phillies' pitching coach now manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, with helping him. "He showed me how to get the curve ball down," he said. "After that repetition did it. I'm going to use the same pitches this season. The big difference is they (the hitters) can't say, 'forget the curve ball and wait for the fast ball.'"

And Wise won't forget the real incentive — next year's meeting with John Quinn.

PM announces benefit games

CRESCO — Proceeds of two basketball games to be played on Tuesday, March 26, at the Pocono Mountain Junior-Senior High School, Swiftwater, will be donated to the Heart Fund. The first game will be between the Girls Varsity and the Boys Varsity basketball teams.

The second game will feature the Men's Faculty I, coached by Joseph Murray and the Men's Faculty II, coached by Harry Werkheiser.

Starting time will be 6:45 p.m. and tickets may be purchased at the door.

Blues confident

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League are pretty sure of themselves. They have mailed letters explaining procedures for obtaining tickets to NHL playoff games.

Ann Landers

Hate without reason

Dear Ann Landers: These past four years have been like a nightmare. It's as if I have been waiting for a bomb to explode. I don't believe you can help me but it will ease my mind to know I asked for your help.

From the day our daughter was born I have felt nothing but contempt for her. Every day it gets worse. I treat her like dirt, but I just can't help it.

We have a son but I have no problem with him. He is a sweet youngster and well-behaved. I rarely have to raise my voice at the boy, but I am constantly shrieking at the girl. She is becoming aware of my hatred and is terrified of me. Frankly, I am terrified of me, too. Can you help me before something horrible happens?

—COUNTDOWN MOTHER
Dear Mother: You are projecting your hatred for someone else onto this unfortunate child. Perhaps it has to do with your husband or your feelings toward your own mother.

Your are a very sick woman. Ask your physician to recommend a psychiatrist at once. In fact, ask him to recommend two psychiatrists. A child who has been the object of her mother's intense hatred for four years in all probability needs help, too.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's mother is a great looking gal, has a neat figure and is only 15 years older than I am. Eunice and I could easily pass for sisters. She has laughingly described her husband (number three and 18 years her senior) as "dead from the neck both ways."

Eunice has a good job in the office of a warehouse and is very popular with everyone. In fact, she is too popular. This is the problem. Her husband phoned us twice last week and again tonight looking for her. My husband said to me, "If Mom is using us as an alibi she should tip us off." I looked at him in amazement and said, "I wouldn't play that kind of a game, even for your mother."

We got into an argument about "loyalty" and he insists his mother is an unusually vital woman, that her husband is unquestionably impotent and there is nothing immoral about "protecting" her so she can have a decent life.

May we hear from you?
—STILL FIGHTING

Dear Still: This is a decent life! Sorry, I don't buy it. If your husband wants to "protect" Eunice, that's up to him, but you are under no obligation to do so. The next time Eunice's husband calls, say, "Just a minute," then hand the phone to your husband.

Dear Ann Landers: May I give a word of advice to the woman who threw out her dinner night after night because her husband wouldn't telephone and let her know he had a business meeting and would be a few hours late?

I had the same problem, only my husband wasn't held up by anything so high class as a business meeting. He used to stop off at a bar and get stoned. When he finally decided to come home, his dinner was either grease-soaked or burned and I had to throw it out and start all over.

After a few years I got smart and told him I wasn't going to start dinner until I saw the whites of his eyes — unless, of course, he telephoned to say he was on his way. After coming home and finding no dinner six or seven times he decided he'd better call. This is how I solved the problem.
BINGHAMTON N. Y.

Dear Bing: Three cheers for a smart lady in Binghamton! This approach will not work in every case, but it's bound to work in some. Thanks for the suggestion.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Pocono Record enclosing a long, addressed, stamped envelope.

Dutch Colonial outside with modern inside

BY ANDY LANG

The enchantment of a Dutch Colonial has been captured in this modified version of that ever-popular exterior house design. Authentic touches include a gambrel roof, three matching dormers, narrow horizontal siding and bay windows.

Inside, this particular house stresses practicality. Without any fancy frills that serve no useful purpose, it nevertheless fills the needs of a family requiring four bedrooms.

Within its modest over-all dimensions of 59 feet six inches by 31 feet, including a two-car garage, it is modern in every respect, yet it never sacrifices even a small degree of comfort to achieve this end. Instead, architect Samuel Paul has emphasized functional features.

One example of the inclusion of useful details in the floor plan is the location of a lavatory at the entrance to the family room.

Thus, if required on occasion, the family room could be used for an overnight or weekend guest. And we all know how the need for emergency use of extra sleeping quarters occasionally does arise, no matter how many bedrooms there already are.

Conveniently adjacent to the kitchen, as well as to the front foyer, the family room has a separate entrance to a rear covered porch. It can also be reached, without going through any other room, from the formal living room.

The latter has an inviting brick fireplace with a wood mantel. It has sliding glass doors leading to the covered porch. And its large bay window adds spaciousness to its length of nearly 22 feet.

A bay window also is a feature of the dining room on the other side of the squarish entry, which is engaged by an L-shaped stair to the second floor and has two closet closets just inside the front door.

The kitchen is properly placed so that it adjoins the family room, the dining room and a separate laundry area. Its equipment includes a slip-in range, sink, dishwasher, large refrigerator, 17 foot of hanging cabinet space and 15 feet of counter space, with space for a breakfast table next to windows overlooking the rear yard.

The laundry area has a washing machine, dryer, additional wall cabinets and closet, with a door to the rear and another to the garage, which is large enough for two cars and a workshop.

The walk up to the second floor is eased by a middle landing. There are four bedrooms grouped around a sizable hall. The hall bathroom, servicing three of the partitioned, enabling multiple use and privacy at the same time.

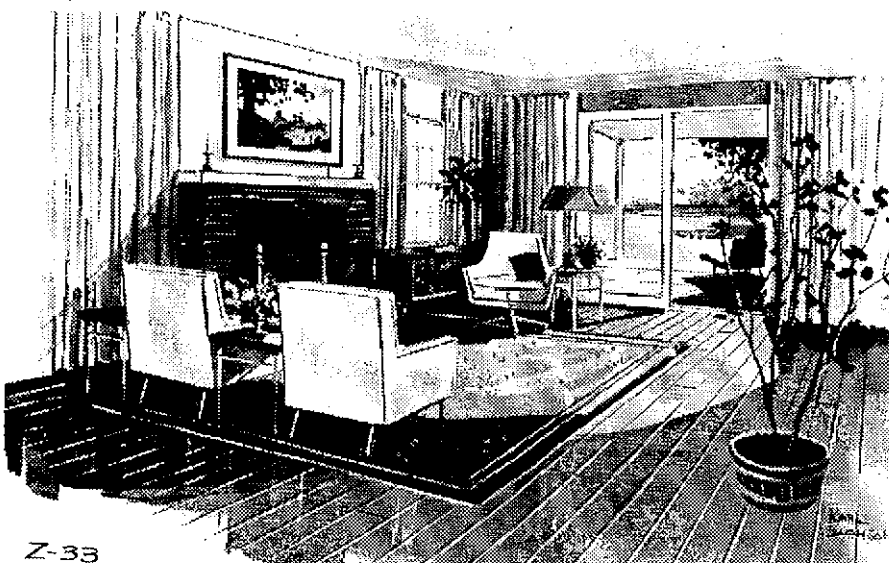

This bathroom has a built-in linen closet, two basins and a large expanse of mirrors. The master suite, besides a bedroom, contains a dressing room, bath, two large closets and three exposures.

The other bedrooms have ample closets and sufficient wall space for good furniture arrangement.

A full basement under the main portion of the house can be utilized for storage of finished as a recreation area. All in all, this Dutch Colonial is well balanced for comfortable living.

Some of the best exterior features of the Dutch Colonial styling used by American settlers from Holland are incorporated in this modern version, including the matching triple dormers set into the traditional Gambrel roof. For mini-blue print of this house, order plan Z-33 at The Pocono Record office.

For indoor and outdoor comfort, the brick fireplace is the focal point in the living room which has sliding glass doors leading to a covered porch at the rear of the house. Interior and exterior plans are available for 50 cents on the mini-blueprints at The Record office.

When you're buying bedroom carpet, make sure there's an Indian behind it.

You don't buy carpet every day. And you don't want to replace it next year.

So here's how to be a carpet expert: look for Mohawk Tommy on the label.

Our little Indian is your assurance that the Mohawk Carpet you select is the product of generations of carpet-making experience.

For your bedroom our little Indian suggests Larchmont, a very new shag with a deep pile of 100% Kodol® polyester fiber. The true beauty of shag is enhanced by Larchmont's unusual random texture and exciting two-tone color. What's more, you can choose the color effect that's right for you from a wide selection of decorator combinations.

And though Larchmont is pure luxury it is surprisingly easy to care for. Cleans easily, wears beautifully, never snags, never needs pampering. And it's non-allergenic, and moth- and mildew-proof.

Look for Mohawk Tommy behind your bedroom carpet.

You'll find the best buy since Manhattan Island went on sale.

ON THE HOUSE

BY ANDY LANG

Question: Our house is 12 years old. We moved into it three months ago. Everything was fine until last week, when the water in the toilet bowl in one bathroom began to gurgle for a few seconds every time we turned the flush in a second bathroom.

A neighbor says this means our cesspool is filled and needs to be pumped out. Is this true?

ANSWER: It probably is. However, contact the former owner and find out the last time the cesspool was pumped. If it was recently — within six months, for example — it may be that there is an obstruction in the pipe leading to the cesspool, either inside or outside the house.

One of your neighbors can recommend a reliable cesspool cleaning company, which can make an inspection and determine what the trouble is. You definitely need professional help, since the gurgling, while perhaps not serious at the moment, may be a forerunner of a backup condition.

Question: Some months ago, in response to a question, you said that lacquer could be applied with a brush even though some wood finishers are against the idea, believing that a sprayer should be used. I recall you said that it required a little practice to get the hang of it. So I did some practicing. But I can't get the hang of it. What's wrong?

Answer: With that sparse information, there's no way to tell. But the fundamentals a beginner should remember are:

(1) mix the lacquer 50-50 with lacquer thinner; (2) never lacquer over a painted or varnished surface; (3) use a brush not previously used for paint, varnish, shellac or any other finishing material; (4) apply the lacquer in broad, sweeping strokes; (5) never go over the same area twice.

LOT OWNERS who want the most HOME for their Dollar naturally buy A DEUTSCH HOME!

and DEUTSCH has a home to fit every family's desires and pocketbook —

Deutsch is now the largest builder of custom homes on your lot in Northeast United States. This volume enables us to purchase materials in tremendous quantities and these substantial savings are passed on to you. That's why you can buy an all-brick home, with all the famous DEUTSCH features, for as little as $12,590, complete on your lot.

Deutsch has a nationwide reputation for quality construction. Highly skilled craftsmen, using only famous brand-name materials, build your home piece-by-piece, in conformance with a stringent system of quality control. No wonder "Practical Builder Magazine" reported... "Quality is a MUST with Deutsch."

Your Deutsch Home is exactly what you want because Deutsch has the variety of styles and features to meet your needs and desires. Handsome and spacious ranchers, two story Colonials, split-levels and Cape Cods are included in the Deutsch catalog. We will alter plans according to your wishes.

How many companies can you list that have been building custom homes for more than 20 years? Now in its third decade, Deutsch has built more than 4,000 homes, setting new records year-after-year. This tremendous success is your assurance that DEUTSCH is the builder that is truly dependable and responsible.

From the excavation to the door bell, your Deutsch Home is built, not only with care, but also with an eye to a future of gracious living. Remember... the one way to be sure of getting the most home for your dollar is to select a Deutsch Home. Whether you pay $12,000 or $50,000 you get the same quality construction.
